Program Goals

Westminster College History students will:

- Learn and practice traditional, digital, and community-based methods of primary historical research.
- Learn and practice constructing valid historical arguments based on original research in primary sources.
- Learn and practice communicating historical knowledge creatively and effectively via written, oral, digital and other means.
- Learn and practice skills of critical analysis of evidence, arguments, and conflicting historical interpretations.
- Begin to build a broad and deep content knowledge of global human history

Objectives

The History Program is committed to helping students learn to make sense of the past. The Program emphasizes research and communication skills applicable to further History study and teaching, as well as to many other disciplines and careers. Students learn to ask significant questions about the past, often on-site or in the field; find and critically analyze the best primary and secondary sources, and communicate their findings to a variety of audiences through many means. Students may elect an academic major or minor.

Program Requirements

Enrollment in most history courses, except those designed exclusively for majors and minors, is open to all students who are enrolled in, or have completed, the history area WCore requirement, regardless of major field or class standing.

History majors and minors are encouraged to take History 240 (Making History) and History 242 (Fielding History) in their second year of course work. History 240 and 242 are prerequisites for History 390/History 490.

Students need to check with their History advisor regarding offerings for upcoming semesters. Upper division (300-level) history courses listed in the catalog may not be offered on a regular schedule. No student may register for HIST 390/490 more than three times unless there are legitimate circumstances outside of a student's control preventing successful completion of the first or second course.

Students may substitute up to four hours of elective credit with an approved internship.

Note for Honors College students: HON 201 Welcome to Thinking I may be substituted for HIST 102 or 124 required for the program while HON 202 may substitute for HIST 111, 204 or 206.

Students must meet the college-wide graduation requirements in addition to the History major:

- 124 total hours
- 30 upper division hours
- WCore or Honors College requirements
