WCORE

WCORE FINE ARTS AND HUMANITIES COURSES

NCore Requirements
ART	106	Drawing, Inquiry, and Expression	4 Credits of communication inherent to the m presentation and storage of finished	he art of drawing and visual communi edium. Students will also learn basic te d artworks. This course will also challer h historical and contemporary lenses. (rms and techniques pertaining to creaning students to hone their visual litera	tion and critique of drawings, and the
ART	111	Paint, Perception, and Alchemy	4 Credits of communication inherent to the m presentation and storage of finished	he art of painting and visual communi ledium. Students will also learn basic to d artworks. This course will also challer h historical and contemporary lenses. (erms and techniques pertaining to creating students to hone their visual litera	ition and critique of painting, and the
ART	128	Maker's Lab	4 Credits
this course will provide students the a portfolio of interdisciplinary objec	llow us to see the interconnection and opportunity to expand and integrate t ts and ideas that demonstrate creative d analyze real world problems, as a war	heir creative skills, gain experience with e flexibility and a multifaceted unders	n specialized technology, and develop tanding of complex issues. Alongside
			4 Credits
the four basic building techniques of	e fundamental nature, practices, techni ceramics. It is a course that will familia useful in new technological and indust	rize the student with a utilitarian and a rial manners. Students will be given an	rtistic material that has been used for understanding of the practice of time management, a key component to th	ne success of working in clay and a nec f-expression and communication. (WCc	essity in daily life. Students will learn co re: WCFAH and RE)	eramic hand-building, pottery, glazing
management, a key component to the and firing methods as a means of sel	f-expression and communication. (WCc	re: WCFAH and RE)
management, a key component to the and firing methods as a means of sel	f-expression and communication. (WCc	re: WCFAH and RE) Photography	4 Credits
management, a key component to the and firing methods as a means of selection of the introduction of contemporary will look at and discuss the work of olearn basic technical skills for the beg digital image processing, making pring the frame, time, vantage, and det explore their own vision and ideas. The	f-expression and communication. (WCc	Photography e our most immediate form of commuch student making her/his own personnera operation, developing and scanning and presentation. Students will also leanship of form to content. Most import, they will share this work with each other.	4 Credits nication and expression. Although we al images. In this course, students wil g black and white film, basic grayscale arn the grammar of this language; use antly, students will use these skills to management, a key component to the and firing methods as a means of selection of the select	180 180 ary technology, vision itself has become others, this course is primarily about early in the properties of the state of the s	Photography e our most immediate form of communich student making her/his own personatera operation, developing and scanning and presentation. Students will also leanship of form to content. Most import, they will share this work with each other than the content of the conte	4 Credits nication and expression. Although we al images. In this course, students wil g black and white film, basic grayscale arn the grammar of this language; use antly, students will use these skills to her and receive feedback to help them
management, a key component to the and firing methods as a means of selection of the introduction of contemporation will look at and discuss the work of olearn basic technical skills for the beg digital image processing, making pring of the frame, time, vantage, and det explore their own vision and ideas. The refine it. They will produce affective in the arms of the frame in the produce affective in the arms of the frame in the produce affective in the arms of the arms	180 ary technology, vision itself has become others, this course is primarily about ear inning photographer. These include carnts from negatives, making inkjet prints ail. Students will investigate the relation hrough discussions and group critiques	Photography e our most immediate form of communication o	4 Credits nication and expression. Although wall images. In this course, students wing black and white film, basic grayscalern the grammar of this language; us antly, students will use these skills ther and receive feedback to help then

ART	215	Drawing Lines in the Sand	4 Credits
own creative work. Students will respaces, land(scapes) and power, usin students to fundamental drawing tecl	camines art about landscape, space, ar search artworks and writings that exp g this context to inform their creative w hniques, with a special focus on drawing nce with drawing is required. (WCore: W	lore topics such as landscape, "wild" vorks that address these same topics. I gs and images made using landscape, r	and urban space, public and private This course simultaneously introduces
FILM	110	Making Sense of Movies	4 Credits
learn the terminology and concepts of	nents of film and its history, from the ea of film analysis (mise-en-scene, montage violence, and/or sexually explicit image	e, cinematography, etc.) in the context of	ohy through the present. Students will of film's evolution across the twentieth
FILM	210	(Un)American Cinema	4 Credits
of American cinema history. We will s sense of how the Hollywood studio s a decisive role in the blacklist, they co as a particularly vivid convergence o capitalism (and communism), the poli	ne resulting industry blacklist. These ever ituate them in relation to a broader his ystem operated and the threat it was uportinue to determine the political and a fit the factors that have shaped Americal tical beliefs and artistic aspirations of parametrical cinema in particular. (WCore	storical context. For instance, the blackly ander in the late forties. And if the econ desthetic character of American movies an cinema from the beginning, includi articular filmmakers, and the struggle be	list is incomprehensible without some nomic conditions in Hollywood played s to this day. We will treat the blacklist ng the circumstances of international
FILM	212	Film Genres	4 Credits
	enres get established, how we know that set those expectations. (WCore: WCFAH		4 Credits educating (or indoctrinating) their citi "cases" in the history of world cinema a progression of events through time oppression is an explicit goal of the f	nass audience and because it has playe zens, cinema is even more visibly and e a in an effort to get some understandi but rather as a series of struggles ame films we will study, we will focus on ho genders and modes of sexual expressi	emphatically political than other art for ng of how films operate on and in his ong individuals and groups within part w cinema addresses sites of solidarity	ms. In this course, we will study three tory. We will conceive "history" not as icular societies. Because resistance to
GNDR	101	Gender, Sex, and Identity	4 Credits
every day. This means that we will thi Throughout this course, we will draw faceted understanding of how gender	foster critical thinking about gender ar ink about, write about, and talk about o on several different disciplines, such o structures our lives. We will also look at of gender categories.(WCore: WCFAH, D	questions related to what gender is, ho as sociology, philosophy, literature, and specific topics related to the intersection	w it affects us, and how it can change. d political science, to develop a multi-
HIST	102	Alien Encounters in History	4 Credits
This course will seek to undermine the differences, we can more freely choose the Renaissance. In particular, we will and interacting with "alien" cultures.	since the past has influenced our own wat judgment by arguing that we are funse our futures. Our field of inquiry will examine the ways in which Europeans Examples: What's the difference betwe How do the Khan and the Pope try to response	damentally different from people in the be European History in the centuries th (a definition that evolves over time) del en civilized people and barbarians? Ho	e past and that in understanding these nat include the Ancient World through fine themselves through encountering ow do the people on both sides of the
HIST	111	Patterns of Global Immigration	4 Credits
This course looks at the recent history or so, of migration. The course focuse	of global immigration patterns in the co	ontext of modern world history, paying	particular attention to the last century.

HIST	120	The Story of America	4 Credits
How did we get here? How	did we go from a handful of smal	l, not very important British colonies to the ric	Il seek to answer some fundamental questions thest and most powerful nation on earth? How as construct their versions of the past? (WCore
HIST	123	Citizenship and Voting in E	urope 4 Credits
European history from the individuals seeking citizensh	Renaissance through WWII. Appr nip and/or voter registration here	ndant benefits in European History. The cours oximately two weeks of the course will be dev	se will follow this focus by selectively looking a veloped to a service learning project related to it local issues relating to obtaining citizen right:
HIST	202	America's Best Idea	4 Credits
purpose is to conserve the manner and by such means different designations – incluand reserves – and nations a implications for natural and	scenery and the natural and hist s as will leave them unimpaired found uding national parks, monuments around the world have created the I human history. Why has this bee	oric objects and the wild life therein and to por the enjoyment of future generations." Today , historical parks, military parks, preserves, recreir own versions of "national parks." This course	ress created the National Park Service, "which provide for the enjoyment of the same in such y the Park Service manages 407 "units" with 28 reation areas, seashores, parkways, lakeshores e will investigate the "national park" idea and it in the implications of national park designation tions? (WCore: WCFAH, WE)
HIST	206	Homelands and Contested	Spaces 4 Credits
			states," this course explores the United States
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)?	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject the sand indigenous populations see and exper	states," this course explores the United States th the complex origins, realities and legacies o se are: How and why did these spaces come to reations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places a
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject the sand indigenous populations see and exper	th the complex origins, realities and legacies o se are: How and why did these spaces come to ne creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical r	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and re	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject the sand indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Wasse examines the international tradition of lite	th the complex origins, realities and legacies o se are: How and why did these spaces come to ne creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical r	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and reading to the settle reading. This course solidarity and struggle. (WCore:	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject the stand indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Wasse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE)	th the complex origins, realities and legacies o se are: How and why did these spaces come to be creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical relative to the common of the common	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and reservation and struggle. (WCore: 105 ents into the process of becoming etorical context shapes writing, however the reservation and	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject there and indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Warse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse college writers. The workshop oriented class ow to write about readings, how to understand	th the complex origins, realities and legacies o se are: How and why did these spaces come to be creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical responses change, and inspired to the course immerses stude about the following: how the to research, and how to synand communicate in a college.	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and reading, film interpretation, and reading and the set of the set	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject the sand indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Warse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse college writers. The workshop oriented class we to write about readings, how to understand own writing. By the end of the course, students	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical relative to the common of the common	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and roll tool for social change. This course solidarity and struggle. (WCore: 105 ents into the process of becoming etorical context shapes writing, hothesize research into a student's	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject there and indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Warse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse college writers. The workshop oriented class ow to write about readings, how to understand	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places a course places and approaches to learn the information literacy needs and approaches.
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical relative to the common of the common	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and reading, film interpretation, and reading, film interpretation, and reading and struggle. (WCore: 104 105 ents into the process of becoming etorical context shapes writing, he thesize research into a student's ge context. (WCore: WCFAH, WE) 114 114 ht radition of modern American lift ethnic backgrounds. Emphasizintes, interrogates, and complicates.	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour. Why did certain populations accept or reject there and indigenous populations see and experesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Warse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse examines the international tradition of lite wcFAH, WE) See examines the international tradition of lite wcFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse examines about readings, how to understand own writing. By the end of the course, student work in the course, student with the course and the course are treature by featuring some of the most captivating pertinent connections between literature are	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical responses change, and inspired the common change, and inspired the course immerses stude about the following: how rhe to research, and how to syn and communicate in a college. LMW This course explores the rich minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminar dream of freedom, refuge, so	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and research into a student's ge context. (WCore: WCFAH, WE) 114 h tradition of modern American lift ethnic backgrounds. Emphasizin tes, interrogates, and complicates success, or happiness, they all images.	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour Why did certain populations accept or reject the sand indigenous populations see and experiesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Warse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse examines the international tradition of lite wCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Warse examines about readings, how to understand own writing. By the end of the course, student working for America Searching for America terature by featuring some of the most captival great pertinent connections between literature are fundamental aspects of American culture. We agine and experience modern America in uniquence in the second	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places are co
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical relative to the common of the course immerses stude about the following: how the to research, and how to syn and communicate in a collection of the course immerses the common of the course immerses stude about the following: how the to research, and how to syn and communicate in a collection of the course explores the rick minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminar dream of freedom, refuge, so the course explores the rick minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminar dream of freedom, refuge, so the course explores the rick minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminary dream of freedom, refuge, so the course explores the rick minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminary dream of freedom, refuge, so the course explores the rick minority writers of different imaginative writing illuminary dream of freedom, refuge, so the course of t	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and struggle. (WCore: 105 105 105 ents into the process of becoming etorical context shapes writing, how the struggle. (WCore: WCFAH, WE) 114 114 h tradition of modern American lift etonic backgrounds. Emphasizing tes, interrogates, and complicates success, or happiness, they all image. 115 g cultural dialogue between literal, conversion, apocalypse, and the	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour Why did certain populations accept or reject the stand indigenous populations see and experiesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Wasse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Wasse examines the international tradition of lite wCFAH, WE) Searching Through Wasse examines the end of the course, student own writing. By the end of the course, student own writing. By the end of the most captivate greature by featuring some of the most captivate greature by featuring some of the most captivate greature and experience modern America in unique and experience modern America in unique ture and the Christian Bible, focusing on them is problem of evil. Works by by authors such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible.	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of these spaces today? The course places of the course
Australia, and South Africa (what we commonly know to be? How and why were they responses change over time heavy emphasis on critical relative to the common of the common	among others) from circa 1600 to oday as reservations and homelar maintained (or not maintained)? e)? How do the ancestors of settle reading, film interpretation, and research in the solidarity and struggle. (WCore: 105 ents into the process of becoming etorical context shapes writing, however, the size research into a student's ge context. (WCore: WCFAH, WE) 114 h tradition of modern American lift ethnic backgrounds. Emphasizing tess, interrogates, and complicates success, or happiness, they all important of the size of the size of the success, and complicates success, or happiness, they all important of the size of the	the present. It compels students to grapple winds. Questions of primary concern in this cour Why did certain populations accept or reject the stand indigenous populations see and experiesearch. (WCore: WCFAH, DE) Books That Changed the Wasse examines the international tradition of lite WCFAH, WE) Communicating Through Wasse examines the international tradition of lite wCFAH, WE) Searching Through Wasse examines the end of the course, student own writing. By the end of the course, student own writing. By the end of the most captivate greature by featuring some of the most captivate greature by featuring some of the most captivate greature and experience modern America in unique and experience modern America in unique ture and the Christian Bible, focusing on them is problem of evil. Works by by authors such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible. What light do the Expression of the such as the passages from the Bible.	th the complex origins, realities and legacies of seare: How and why did these spaces come to the creations of these spaces (and why do these ience these spaces today? The course places of the course p

This writing emphasis (WE) Exploration course focuses on humor as a pivotal human experience in the twenty-first century. Students will explore how humor is tied to social contexts, and gain a deep understanding of ways in which humor entertains, instructs, and illuminates political issues. We will read comedy as a cultural text and explore a myriad of subgenres that span geographical contexts (including works by social activist Wanda Sykes, contemporary satirist George Saunders, Indian joke master Kushwant Singh, and cultural critic Barry Sanders), as well as examine styles of comic performances from Ali G's shock-comedy to Margaret Cho's political satire. In the process, we will investigate the meanings and effects of humor that have proliferated through social and digital media in the backdrop of such historical events as 9/11 and the Asian Tsunami. Throughout the course, students will reevaluate the concept of humor and ask "What's funny and why?" (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	121	How Literature Matters Now	4 Credits

This course considers how literature continues to be a vital element of human experience in the 21st century. It may focus on how literary tropes and ideas manifest themselves in other media (in adaptations, allusions, or mashups), on how digital tools have opened up new ways of understanding literary texts, or on how the techniques of literary analysis can help us to understand political narratives. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	130	Self-Discovery: Literature	Film a	nd	4 Credits

Great films and literature testify to the difficulty and the crucial importance of self-discovery. Literary and cinematic protagonists throughout history have struggled to "know thyself," as the oracle commands. The failure to know oneself can have tragic consequences. For us today, film and literature are a challenging and enjoyable route to self-knowledge. This class will study works of literature and cinema which speak to the process of self-discovery. (WCore: WCFAH)

LMW	133	Walking	4 Credits

In this arts and humanities course, we will explore the cultural history of walking in the United States, we will walk with intention, and we will write and make art about walking. Some people walk only out of necessity. Others walk to improve their well-being, to see the world, or to save the earth. Depending on who is walking where, when, why, and how, this seemingly simple and ordinary activity can become an adventure, a sport, a crime, an artistic performance, a spiritual practice, a political protest, and more. By studying and practicing the art of walking, we will ask important questions and uncover sometimes uncomfortable truths about ourselves and our world. This course welcomes all people. For our purposes, walking is defined as slow movement across the land. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	204	Epistolarity: Letters to and From	4 Credits

This writing emphasis (WE) W seminar focuses on letters as both reading and writing texts. Students will read letters both real and imagined (for example Heloise and Abelard, Frederick Douglass, Roland Barthes' A Lover's Discourse, Sojourner Truth, Madame de Stael, M.L.King's "Letter from Birmingham Jail," Rilke's Letters to a Young Poet, McSweeney's Letters to People or Entities Unlikely to Respond) across a variety of genres. Students will also write their own letters (love letters, rejection letters, condolence letters, complaint letters, etc.) to themselves, their loved ones, the instructor and classmates, the editors of newspapers or magazines, their communities, etc. The course seeks to combine a deep understanding of rhetoric (awareness of audience, purpose, and information literacy) with literary modes across a broad spectrum of relevance. Letters might include emails, texts, and tweets. The seminar aims to teach students the importance of establishing ethos in conjunction with educating one's audience. Workshop format, with at least 20 pages of writing, including multiple drafts of each assignment. The course addresses three college-wide learning goals (writing/critical thinking/creative-reflective), plus diversity, because understanding issues of power, subordination, and privilege are inextricable from creating a standpoint from which to speak. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	202	Worlds of Fantasy	4 Credits

While the fantasy genre has its roots in truly ancient myths and legends, it is very much a product of the twentieth century. In Worlds of Fantasy, we will examine the origins and development of fantasy media in all their forms, from literature to TV, film, and games. Our central concerns will be how fantasy represents the past; how readers, viewers, and gamers experience fantasy; and how fantasy both expresses and challenges oppressive concepts of gender and race. Readings will draw from a diverse range of fantasy authors. (WCore: WCFAH)

ŀ	LMW	205	Goddesses, Heroes, and Others	4 Credits
ſ

From ancient scriptures to contemporary comics, these literary characters-goddesses, heroes, and "others" (figures marginalized by the dominant group)-rule. This course investigates and supports your investigations of these character types. It poses basic questions asked by many literary critics: where do these characters come from and how are they adapted by so many cultures and literary genres? To answer these questions, we'll delve into current theory and historical research. We'll do our part to keep goddesses, heroes, and others alive! (WCore: WCFAH, RE)

LMW	207	Global Food Movements: Farms to Social	4 Credits

This course is a study of social movements around food and agriculture in the Global South. From farm worker movements in India to the indigenous fight for environmental justice in Ecuador, this course will investigate how global "food systems" intersect with issues of land, hunger, environment, and the economy. The focus will be on the phenomenon of food crises and the social movements in response to them. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	210	Digital Narratives	4 Credits

In this course we will learn how to create stories using digital media such as video narratives and podcasts. Alongside exploring creative elements, we will also reflect critically on how new media shape our understanding of narrative and audiences. The online forum will allow us to be fully immersed in a digital experience. We will create what Anne Burdick calls, "imaginative techno-texts" and critique each other's works online. To develop a common vocabulary, we will read critical texts about narrative and media. In the process, we will analyze the relationship between creator and audience, between form and medium, by asking questions like, "how do the intersections between technology and storytelling affect the ways in which we explore and express our stories?" Students don't need technical proficiency. We'll spend some time going over basic technical and production guidelines. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

LMW	211	Reading and Detection	4 Credits

While investigating the history of the detective genre in film and literature, this course compares the work of interpretation with detective work. It is a famous staple of the detective narrative that the detective explains her or his method of detection, often in considerable philosophical detail. In this course, students will imitate these self-reflective detectives by cultivating and describing their own unique methods of interpretation. They will articulate these methods in essays, discussions, and other linguistic performances. (WCore: WCFAH)

LMW	215	Vampire Literature	4 Credits

This course proceeds from the assumption that reading literature bears certain uncanny similarities with vampirism, and that these similarities partly account for the success of the vampire subgenre in popular literature and cinema (the reception of which we will regard as a kind of reading). In particular, literary texts put their readers in a state of passivity that is at once often nerve-wracking and intensely pleasurable. Meanwhile, we will regard writing as a form of vampiric seduction, luring the reading into a receptive state only to strike at the decisive moment and thus achieve its aims (which we will assume are somewhat less violent than the aims of a vampire). (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

PHIL	129	Race, Power, and Privilege	4 Credits

No one lives as just an individual but rather all of us live within and interact with systems of identity, oppression, and privilege. Many people find solidarity, belonging, and pride in our relationships with categories such as race but these categories are also sites of oppression and privilege. In this course, we will look at how systems of racism and privilege contribute to how we define ourselves, how we are defined by society, and how the world we know is defined. We will do this from a philosophical perspective. This means that while we will occasionally discuss concrete issues such as affirmative action and equal pay laws we will concentrate on theories of oppression, privilege, intersectionality, and resistance. This means that we will do a lot of abstract thinking in this course. While the topics that we will investigate in this class are different than what you would find in most philosophy courses we will be learning how to think philosophically about important issues that are part of who we are.

We will read a wide variety of sources written by living philosophers of race, some sources from philosophers working in the early twentieth century, as well as quite a bit of work from theorists working in literature and sociology. Looking at sources from different time periods and disciplines will highlight how concepts related to race and power change significantly over time, as well as reflecting that "Philosophy of Race" as a subfield is always interdisciplinary. Assignments and discussions will encourage students to complicate the ways they view their own identity, question the simplified accounts of power that they encounter from the media, engage in social justice work, and reflect upon that work in meaningful ways. (WCore: WCFAH, DE)

PHIL	131	Philosophy of Gender and Power	4 Credits

The term "feminist" has almost as many meanings as it has both advocates and detractors. For some, the "feminism" means a radical shift in language, politics, and economics. For some, the term simply means equality. And still for others, the term means witchcraft, sexual deviancy, and the death of the American family. This semester, we will examine how contemporary theorists (many of whom call themselves "feminist") argue the world needs to change in order to make a more just environment for women. In the process, we will read about, write about, and discuss a wide range of issues including structures of power, sexuality and sexual violence, race, masculinity, and beauty norms. The goal for this class is not to decide on one solitary definition of "feminism" but instead to force ourselves to think more critically about how gender structures the world around us and how we can change our future. (WCore: WCFAH, DE)

PHIL	134	Philosophy, Identity, and the Self	4 Credits

When we begin to look at the world philosophically, we begin to question the basic assumptions in our lives that we used to ignore. This forces us to start to live in our world with shakier scaffolding than before. However, while this can be uncomfortable and often downright annoying, it also allows us to reflect on what we truly find valuable and encourages to build more meaningful relationships with ourselves, our loved ones, and our world. Throughout this course, we will read philosophical reflections on five core questions in philosophy. Moreover, we will write about and discuss how these questions enter into our own lives and how the ideas of fellow philosophers shake or stabilize our own scaffolding. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

PHIL	208	Philosophy of Love & Sex	4 Credits

Love and sexuality are two of the most crucial and complex aspects of our identities. Moreover, these concepts are often intertwined and sometimes pitted against one another. In this class, we will examine different approaches to this topic from a wide selection of philosophical traditions. Furthermore, we will supplement traditional philosophical readings with analyses of artifacts from popular culture, such as music, movies, and television. All of this will prepare us to ask and respond to various questions, such as "what is love, what is sex, and how are they related?" "In what ways does who and how we love make us who we are?" "How is sexuality a personally and politically important construct?" and "How can love change the world?" (WCore:, WCFAH, WE)

PHIL	209	Poverty and Global Justice	3 Credits

Poverty is examined in this course as an ethical issue of the most pressing sort. Reviewing various ethical theories and conducting a survey of some of the most commonly used definitions of poverty, we focus on this question: what justifies, ethically, politically and economically, if at all, allowing so many human being to remain mired in extreme conditions of deprivation (i.e., poverty that kills)? Arguably, we could act in such a way as to change such conditions to the benefit of the humans who are otherwise the victims of these unchanged, impoverished conditions. (WCore: WCFAH)

PHIL	216	Ethical Issues in Health and Healthcare	4 Credits

The basic or human right to life enjoys widespread endorsement, though just what sort of life is considered a basic right may vary from one society to another. While exploring some of these varieties of the conception of "life" which all human beings putatively have a right to (and thus someone or other has a duty to support such a claim), we will focus in this course on the role which health and adequate health care play, anywhere, as necessities, for human beings who are trying to enjoy the substance of such a basic right to life. Other necessities for a substantive life as a matter of right will be discussed as well. (WCore: WCFAH)

PHIL	221	Ethics of Diversity	4 Credits

In the context of philosophy, ethics is the study of moral decisions and moral actions. To put it more simply, the aim of this course is to ask the question "What ought I do?" Throughout this term, we will ask this question again and again, sometimes in the context of concrete decisions and sometimes in the context of more abstract theories of right and wrong. In the process, we will read the work of authors who are trying to answer the same questions, investigate their works thoroughly, and analyze their ideas and our own though writing and class discussion. (WCore: WCFAH, DE)

THTR	180	Acting I	3 Credits

A study of the acting techniques of Stanislavski, Strasberg, and Hagen applied to monologues and scene. (WCore: WCFAH)

			_
	THTR	255	Script Analysis	3 Credits
			' '

This course studies methodologies of scriptanalysis to help students develop greater skill in the technical and theoretical skills of script analysis using a formalist approach. Using dramatic literature from naturalism to the avant garde, students will dissect how the plays work structurally. Analytical methods provide students with glimpses of plays' underlying structural principles, leading to deeper understanding of overall meaning. The course offers general guidelines for reading and thinking about plays and understanding the basic potentials of a play's construction. (WCore; WCFAH)

WCFAH	127	Infinite Variety	3 Credits

An introductory course to the art of acting and communication through performance. It covers the study of basic acting techniques, the value of storytelling, modes of communication (verbal, physical, text and subtext), and improvisation.

Students will learn a lexicon of terms and techniques related to rehearsing, performing, and critiquing live performance and storytelling. Students will be challenged to access and deliver the physical, emotional, and psychological aspects of their character(s). (WCore: WCFAH)

WCFAH	122	Sound, Music, and Technology	3 Credits
WCFAH	132	Sound, Music, and Technology	3 Cieuits

"The history of the music industry is inevitably also the story of the development of technology. From the player piano to the vinyl disc, from reel-to-reel tape to the cassette, from the CD to the digital download, these formats and devices changed not only the way music was consumed, but the very way artists created it." Edgar Bronfman, Jr. former CEO of Warner Music Group. Using this quote as a guide, but expanding it to include music and sound as a whole, not just the music industry, this course will broadly examine the effect that technology has had on music and sound after WWII. It will cover music and sound in popular music, art music, film and interactive media, music of other cultures, and sound art and sound installations. The class format is based on a cycle of listening, reading, and creating. Students will first listen to and discuss works that employ, are made possible, or were fundamentally changed because of a paradigm shift brought about due to a technological innovation. Students will then read and learn about one particular innovation and finally demonstrate their knowledge of this innovation by creating short musical or sound works of their own and writing about the relationship between technology and their own work or by composing short, focused essays about the relationship between a technological shift and works listened to in class. This class is open to all majors, regardless of prior musical knowledge; however, basic computer skills are required. (WCore: WCFAH)

WCFAH	207	Humor and Philosophy	4 Credits

Most people love to laugh-but why? And what makes something funny? Is there a secret to someone or something being comical? And what's the purpose of humor and laughter, anyway? Finally-can anything be funny? Are some forms of humor actually immoral, and are we bad people for laughing at some jokes? Or is humor a fictional holiday from everyday life, where anything and everything is allowed? In this course we'll philosophically explore these questions and others about the nature, purpose, value, and possible limits of humor in everyday life. (WCore: WCFAH)

WCFAH	213	Revisioning (Dis)ability	4 Credits

This course has been designed to provide an in-depth exploration of social justice issues for people with disabilities. Through a series of visual images, including documentaries and digital photographs, students will examine the disturbing history of cruel treatment through 'tyranny of the majority' toward those with disabilities. Topics include the Eugenics Movement, forced institutionalization, and continued restraint and seclusion. Students will also delve into the social changes brought about by the Disability Rights Movement as well as the barriers to full inclusion that exist today. (WCore: WCFAH, WE)

WCFAH	219	The Music of Two Ring Cycles	4 Credits

In this course, students will examine music composed for two of the greatest fantasy epics ever created, Richard Wagner's 4-opera Der Ring des Niebelungen and Howard Shore's soundtracks to the 3-film version of J.R.R. Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings. Comparisons between the literary content of the cycles are inevitable, from the subject matter to parallel plot developments and even the fantasy creatures that inhabit each world, and these will be studied in the course. In addition to these correspondences, the composers of each cycle used very similar compositional devices to organize the musical content, providing continuity over 10+ hours of music while simultaneously clearly delineating characters, objects, emotional states and more abstract ideas. Students will present their own specialized research on diverse topics relating to the two cycles to their classmates. (WCore: WCFAH, RE)

WRIT	110	First Year Writing Workshop	4 Credits

As students, we engage in a variety of academic conversations across multiple contexts. We engage with others in these communities to listen, share, inform, and persuade. The purpose of this course is to help students develop the confidence as writers entering academic conversations. We will approach this in several ways. We will develop mindful reading strategies. That is, how to make deliberate decisions on which reading strategies to use across various contexts and purposes. We will develop and reflect on our writing process, in which we plan, draft, share, and revise our writing. And, we will explore rhetorical choices in written and oral communication. That is, uncover not just what the writer and speaker says, but how the writing and speech is put together. We will analyze the academic conversations for rhetorical principles including audience, purpose, and argumentative strategies. (WCore: WCFAH)